NEW STREET SIGNS IMPROVE MUSCATINE NAVIGATION

Public Works, MPW team up to install signage on mast arms at key intersections

MUSCATINE, Iowa – Residents and visitors in Muscatine will soon notice new street-name signs being installed at key intersections throughout the city. The upgrades are part of an ongoing effort to enhance wayfinding and improve the overall driving experience.

The Muscatine Department of Public Works (DPW), in collaboration with Muscatine Power and Water (MPW), is installing the new signs on traffic signal mast arms at multiple intersections. Some intersections—such as those along Colorado Street and Park Avenue—already received new signage during previous road reconstruction projects.

After identifying additional intersections that would benefit from clearer signage, city staff worked with MPW to ensure the new signs would not exceed weight or wind load limits on the mast arms. Once approved, MPW agreed to handle installation, while the City supplied the necessary brackets and mounting hardware.
