CITY COUNCIL TO HEAR UPDATES FROM ART CENTER AND WATER RESOURCE DIRECTORS ON TUESDAY

MUSCATINE, Iowa – The Muscatine City Council will receive updates on projects and upcoming initiatives from the Muscatine Art Center and the Water Resource and Recovery Facility during its first meeting of November, scheduled for 5:30 p.m. Tuesday, November 4, in the City Council Chambers at Muscatine City Hall.

Melanie Alexander, Director of the Muscatine Art Center, and Jon Koch, Director of the Water Resource and Recovery Facility, will brief the Council on recent accomplishments and plans for the coming year. Council members will also hear an update and hold a discussion on downtown parking options.

“Regular department updates like these help ensure that the City Council and the public stay informed about progress on important projects,” said Matt Mardesen, City Administrator. “They also provide an opportunity for residents to see how their local government is working to enhance services, strengthen infrastructure, and improve quality of life in Muscatine.”

In addition to the department presentations, the agenda includes action on several key items:
